HSS is world renowned for excellence in the diagnosis, treatment and recovery of the injured athlete. HSS physicians are official team doctors for the New York Giants, New York Mets, New York Knicks, New York Liberty and New York Red Bulls, as well as a number of elite, professional, national and college teams. HSS is designated the first National Medical Center of the United States Olympic Committee (USOC) National Medical Network. In addition, HSS is a FIFA Medical Center of Excellence, one of only three in the United States. IMG is a global leader in maximizing athletic potential through their physical and mental performance training programs. The new partnership between the two institutions will result in innovative educational programs and clinical research along with a robust athlete rehabilitation program focused on diagnosis, treatment, accelerated injury recovery and prevention.