HSS ALUMNI REPRESENT OVER 20 DIFFERENT SPECIALTIES IN MUSCULOSKELETAL HEALTH

"I have a photo of my HSS classmates—Hyun Bae, Struan Coleman, William Ertl, Deborah Faryniarz, Stephen Fealy, Adam Shafritz, Eric Tolo—together with Drs. Warren and Sculco from our graduation. It hangs in my office to this day! My HSS classmates were all amazingly accomplished and inspiring individuals, and my fondest professional memories involve the process of learning the various technical and academic aspects of orthopaedic surgery. Some of my most cherished personal memories include gatherings at 310, running in Central Park with classmates, preparing for golf tennis day or the chief roast, or for loading up on food at the Belaire café for a weekend on call! I cannot imagine a better orthopaedic training program than HSS"

Together, We Are HSS

Virgil P. Gibney, MD

In 1888, Virgil P. Gibney, MD, surgeon-in-chief of the Hospital for the Ruptured and Crippled, hired three young doctors to live in the hospital and care for patients. He called them “residents”— the first use of a term now recognized universally as a name for physicians in training.

“Working with mentors like Dr. Charles Christian inspired me to become a rheumatologist and to appreciate the honor of training and working at Hospital for Special Surgery.”

—Linda A. Russell, MD
Fellow Class of 1995
HSS Medical Staff

“The ability to participate in humanitarian missions was a valuable component of my training. I am inspired by what other alumni are doing as well. There is a large unmet need for orthopaedic outreach.”

—Christine Goodbody, MD

2018 Alumni President

Jo A. Hannafin, MD, PhD

Fellow Class of 1992

“I did not envision becoming an orthopaedic surgeon at the start of that rotation but by the end I realized that I could combine my love of sports and medicine as a sports orthopaedic surgeon.”

2020 Pier Giorgio Marchetti, MD, Award for International Achievement

Andrea Baldini, MD, PhD

Fellow Class of 2004

“I saw an incredible level of medical education at HSS, and I had the opportunity to get to know doctors who would later mentor me when I became a fellow.”
